1 CALL WITH THE HIRING MANAGER

During this 30 – 45 minute phone or video call, the hiring manager will describe the position in detail and you'll discuss your qualifications and experience for the role. Take this time to ensure you're clear about the position, our industry, Cinnaire's culture, and the specifics of the job.

2 THE INTERVIEW

Our interview process lasts about 60 minutes and includes a series of behavioral based interview questions, which are focused on how you handled real situations in your past or current work experiences. We recommend that you structure your answers to these questions using the STAR method, in which you describe a specific Situation, Task, Action, and Result. This helps you explain in a simple yet powerful way how you handled specific work situations and challenges. At the end of the interview, you'll have the opportunity to ask any questions you may have.

Participants in your interview will include the hiring manager, a representative of our human resources division, and potentially one or two other members of the hiring manager's team.

3 THE ASSESSMENT

Our third-party consultant, Plante Moran, will schedule you to complete a series of online cognitive skills and personality tests and you will also meet with a Plante Moran organizational development professional for a one and a half hour interview. The assessment process will move as quickly as your schedule allows.

The size of the candidate pool may be reduced during the process so not all applicants complete all three steps. Employment offers are contingent on a satisfactory background check.
